Publication Date: 29 October 2009

FAIRFAX, VA. – At an October 9th meeting of the Compliance Area Roundtable in Fairfax, Virginia Cavalry Solutions had the opportunity to present its flagship product, the Cavalry Compass™ as a robust aide to meet the roundtable’s Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) initiative.

Representatives from CUNA, NAFCU, Maryland & D.C. Credit Union Association and several Credit Unions throughout Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia met to discuss the latest Regulatory challenges facing the industry. Cavalry Solutions, Inc presented the importance of Enterprise Risk Management as well as practical strategies and tools to implement a successful ERM plan. The Cavalry Compass™, the web based risk assessment software from Cavalry Solutions, Inc, was introduced as an ideal platform for ERM in Credit Unions. “Today’s ever changing regulatory landscape makes it difficult for Credit Unions to keep up with changes and be proactive in managing risk,” stated John Harwell, president of the Capital Area Compliance Roundtable and Compliance Officer for Apple Federal Credit Union in Arlington, VA. “The Cavalry Compass™ allows Credit Unions, regardless of size, to be proactive in their approach to managing risk while saving both time and resources using automated technology and ultimately preparing them for better business decisions before examinations,” said Tim Cirincione, Vice President of Cavalry Solutions, Inc. Credit Unions have seen more regulatory changes this year than in decades previously. Managing risk remains in the top 3 areas for financial organizations to focus on for the next year as Regulators tighten their squeeze.

Capital Area Compliance Roundtable is open to all federal and state credit unions located in Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia and Delaware as well as Trade Associations, Credit Union Leagues and other organizations and firms supporting credit unions. The roundtable is intended to facilitate the solution of common problems and to provide education to its members through the combined expertise of its individual members.
